

This is an absolutely fantastic idea. The agency numbers need to be significantly increased as to adequately supervise the significant amount of investment in residential housing. The levy amount is small enough not to discourage investment and will ensure that the rules will be adhered to.