

Regional banking enquiry

What is needed is an Australia Post peoples bank, just like the old Commonwealth Bank used to be before deregulation put profits before people and services. This would give the regional areas back some of the services they have lost and would create capital for much needed infrastructure projects to boost the towns economies. Instead of taking away from rural Australia this would give some much needed service and growth back.

Robert Ovenden